DEAR BROTHER KNIGHTS
BY BUD JOOS, GRAND KNIGHT

TO KILL A PRIEST

There was article in the Catholic Times (3/21/02) about a Long Island priest and parishioner were killed. The man entered the church and drew his rifle just as Father Penzes finished his homily and turned to the altar and was shot in the back. This tragedy is of course compounded by the fact of our extreme shortage of priests. This news was noticed in the press for just a day or two.

But the media is having a feeding frenzy concerning the actions of a few priests who have been guilty of improprieties against our youth. I fear that this will be in the news for a long time. The action that we can and must take is giving our open vocal support to the good priests who have dedicated their lives to serve us.

But both of these examples certainly affect the decisions of our young men that who may be slightly interested in pursuing a priestly vocation. Who would want to be a target of a rifle or slanderous remarks? Also both of these examples seem out of our control and give us a helpless feeling as faithful parishioners. As result of these events when the word priest is mentioned in public it will get the attention of all whom hear it. And it will hold their attention like Alan Greenspan holds the attention of the stock analysts on Wall Street. The public will hang on every word.

We can also kill a priest by a constant verbal assault on the priests because we disagree with their on methods of management of a parish or a change in the liturgical sequence at Mass. The point is that when our youth hear our constant gripping in public it drives them away from considering a vocation and is as deadly as the rifle shot in the back.

A convert stated in our Renew Group that one reason she converted was the celebration of Mass goes much deeper than the celebrant. Also the celebration was basically the same wherever the Mass is said. She was raised in a Baptist family and when she was at home her parents were always shopping for a minister that they would be more to their liking. But it would always happen that after changing there would be another search for yet another church because they would find some fault with that minister too.

Let us remember why we celebrate the Mass.

Your Grand Knight, Bud Joos

I Am Thomas
By: Pat Cleary

As humans we tend to be very scientific, always asking why and how. Our ability to remain open to God's presence in our lives is stifled by this doubting attitude. God is here, with all of us, at all times. Some times He shows us in ways our human side can accept more freely.

I can not remember the occasion, but Father Steve was telling us all that "God is Good", "we are chosen" and we need to invite Him into our lives and our functions. Our family began the practice of personally inviting God, Jesus, Mary and relatives and friends to participate in our celebrations, Christmas,

Chancellor's Challenge March –2002

By Dick Petersen

On Easter Sunday we were fortunate to attend the 9:30AM mass with Monsignor Maroon. The focus of his sermon was—Resurrection. He did a question and answer session with everyone asking what is the focus of our faith. The answer—RESURRECTION.

For the forty days of lent we prepared ourselves to celebrate this focal point of our faith. We fasted, abstained and tried to look into our hearts to make us more aware of our need for God in our lives. What a wonderful gift we receive at the end of this time with Easter and Christ's rising from the dead. His completion of the saving act He came to earth to give to everyone.

How do we celebrate this life changing event? Easter dinner with the family, candies and jelly beans, Easter egg hunts and Mass. We're glad the trials of lent are over for another year and we can get back to our normal lives. We've done our Easter duty for another year. Is this really what Easter is all about?

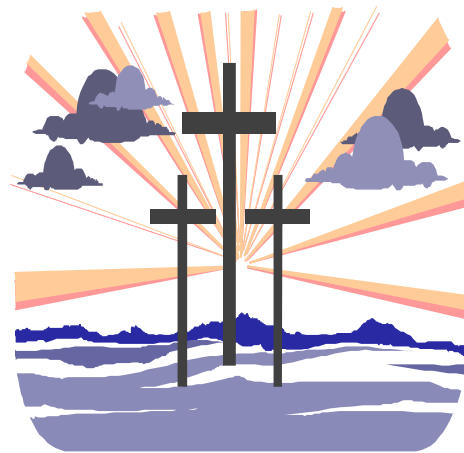

Monsignor Maroon went on to explain that this is only the beginning. Now we go forward to celebrate the 50 days of Easter. Isn't this a more fitting postlude to the greatest event in our faith. Shouldn't it be more of a beginning rather than an ending or completion?

Think about it. In the next 50 days we are going to travel with the women to the tomb. We are going to share the moments of the risen Christ visiting the apostles in the upper room. We get to hear again of our doubting Thomas. We'll walk the road to Emmaus with Christ. And all this will wrap up with the coming of the Holy Spirit (Pentecost) and the Ascension.

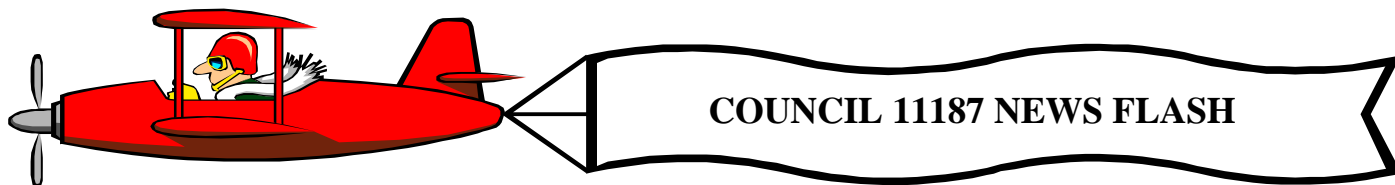

During the next 50 days we are going to experience what the saving act of our Lord did to the people of His time. We are going to see the beginning of our faith and be challenged to live that faith.

At Christmas we have the "12 days of Christmas" to bring us to the Presentation. After Easter we have the 50 days to show us our faith for the rest of our lives.

The April challenge is for us to live the 50 days of Easter. Don't let Easter be just the end of lent. Participate in the experience of Easter and let it bring you to a deeper understanding of your faith.

*Renew Your Faith
This Easter*

Thanksgiving, birthdays and especially Mass.

St. Patrick's day is celebrated in our family like the Fourth of July. There is no school for the children and after viewing the parade we attend the Irish Reunion at Veterans Memorial followed by a big family dinner at our house. In the past, Father Steve would always attend with his mom's side of the family, the O'Reilly Clan. Those of us that have been doing this a few years have tables reserved in our usual spots. And every year Fr. Steve would visit our table, have a bite to eat and then continue to visit others he knew. This year we asked him and all our departed relatives and friends to join us in spirit.

There was a slight problem with the table location this year and we had to accept a spot further back and outside. Upon arriving we located our tables and set out all the food. About an hour later we were commenting on the location (we liked it) and that there was an extra chair. At this point our oldest remarked "look at the back of the extra chair". There in bold capital letters it read HAWKINS. We all said, "Steve is here". I then set out to tell Steve's mom about this, but could not find their table. When I returned to our table, my wife Chris said Steve's mom is at the table across the aisle. It turned out they too had to take a different location this year.

In past years I would have insisted that all this was merely coincidence. And why would "Steve's chair" show up at our table, not the O'Reilly's. Perhaps Steve knew we were open to him and we would get the message to his mom. Or is it God having me tell this story to remind us, in ways we can accept, that He is with us. We just need to invite Him into our daily lives and through faith know He is there.

Easter Bunny visits Seton

Yes folks you weren't dreaming—the Easter Bunny did make an appearance at Seton Parish. Many thanks to the Garcia's—Jesus, Lucretia, Angela and Maria for setting up this event. # CLIPPERS TICKETS

BY: MARK BORYS

The Clipper Baseball ticket program has gone well this year, however I still need a little help. This year we were assigned a quota of 700 tickets and I still have 200 tickets to sell, with your help we can meet our quota.

We have in excess of 200 members in our Council and as of this date 20 brother knights have participated in this program, and I Thank each one of you.

The tickets we have are $5.00 General Admission tickets; the special Knights of Columbus price is $2.00. These tickets can be upgraded at the ballpark. You may select any home game from April 9 to June 14. June 14 will be K of C night at the Ball Park. The presentation for the Special Olympics will be made that evening.

I will have tickets available at the meetings and will have them after all the Masses when we sell the Kroger Cares certificates. You may also drop a note in my Church mailbox. Thank You all for all your efforts.
