

Knighly News

Happy Valentine's Day to the Ladies of our Council!!!

Dear Brother Knights,

Well January just blew by. We began the month with a great win in Tempe by the Buckeyes over Miami to go 14 - 0 and earn the National Championship title. Pat Cleary, Ron Shubert and their band of merry Knights put on another wonderful and successful Pancake Breakfast. The month closed with Mike Sergio and Joe Coffey hosting a jam-packed Monte Carlo. The figures aren't in as yet, but both of these events have exceeded the prior years. Thank you to all brother Knights and their ladies who worked and participated in both these events. I am especially thankful for all of the camaraderie and hospitality shown by everyone.

February 15 marks the third anniversary of Monsignor Steve's passing. I hope everyone will take a few moments on that day to fondly remember Steve and pray that his example will continue to make us strong followers of Christ. Remember he always reminded us that "God is Good". February 9 is the next Pancake breakfast. Lets work to get our families and friends to stop in and taste the great food and fellowship these always offer. In the evening of the 9th we will be hosting our clergy at the Clergy Appreciation Night at Villa Milano. Deputy Grand Knight Neil Ferguson and Lady Kathy will escort the clergy from our parish. There are still spaces available for any other Knights who wish to attend. Please contact me if you want to sit at our tables. The cost is $30.00 per person. On February 23 there will be a 2nd and 3rd degree at OLPH in Grove City. We will be contacting all 1st degree Knights to attend and will carpool from the church that morning at 11 AM. Please consider completing your degrees for those who have not had the opportunity to do so.

Finally there will be our first Blue Coat Appreciation Dinner held to honor the Pickerington Police and Firefighters. Please refer to the ad in this newsletter for the details. I hope all of you will join us in honoring these fine civil servants to protect and serve us in the community.

Fraternally Yours,
Dick Petersen,
Grand Knight

Chancellor's Corner

February is here. While pondering topics for this month's writing, the obvious came up, Valentines Day and love. Too easy. Besides, previous articles have dealt with the subject, you already know my feelings towards my wife, and I hope God. Being a hopeless romantic though, I could not totally ditch the topic for another. So, this month we will look at love lost.

It was my senior year in college. Jenny and I had been "a couple" since the beginning of my junior year. Our expressions of love had gone on for a while now. However, the big, final commitment of love in the form of marriage was never discussed. I sure had not brought it up. On one early May afternoon Jenny suddenly began speculations upon how life would be next year at this time ... with our new jobs, wedded life, and if we would be considering having children. My polite interrupting comment of "I did not think I had proposed yet" received a not-so-polite retort of "If we are not going to get married this summer, I never want to see you again!" We never did. The shock of such an immediate loss lasted for a long time. I still sometimes wonder, "What would have happened if?"

More recently, the day of this writing actually, my wife and I lost a very close friend. Jeanne Sanders succumbed to a long and valiant battle with breast cancer. She was one of Maureen's best friends since our marriage here in Columbus ... a confidante, an "older sister", a much-needed shoulder on which to rely upon whenever needed. Our last visits together were very moving and unbelievably saddening. Jeanne's disease had paralyzed her in these final stages. She could not care for herself at all. Even lifting her head to speak or take a refreshing sip of water took great effort. Cancer sapped even her last bits of dignity. But, through the entire ordeal, nothing sapped her spirit. At each visit's end her words were the same, "I love you guys. You're such great friends." The declaration was unnecessary, but valued tremendously. As happy as we are that her pain is over and she is with Our Lord, selfishly we still mourn that love lost. The void left behind will be hard to fill. The ache may never leave.

In between these two events, more losses have occurred. Stories about my father-in-law still bring misty eyes to my wife and a slight downturn at the corners of her mouth. This is even when reminiscing the good times. You can see the pain still gnawing at her soul. I still miss the animated discussions with my grandmother replaying the satisfying victories or heart-breaking losses of our beloved Browns. These conversations were our bond. Now broken with her death, even the victories seem hollow. Comments following a particularly exciting win of "I sure wish Nana was here to see that one!" ring with more sadness than joy.

Losses creep into many areas of life. Each can be devastating. Changes in occupation, location, friendship, and even lifestyle can each bring that feeling of great loss for a situation that one truly loved. And saying or hearing "everything happens for a reason" does not ease the pain and suffering felt. The situation cannot often times be repaired. Gone forever are the feelings of comfort, joy, familiarity, and love. And life goes on.

So, here is my challenge for you this month. Remember with joy the loves lost in your life. Forget the pain. Enjoy the loves you have now. Nurture them for the future. Say that extra and unprompted "I love you" to your significant other. Call or visit those family members you love and tell them so. Express your gratitude to those who have honored you with their friendship. Tomorrow it could all change. Give yourself nothing but the good times to relish. And while we are at it, lets not forget to profess daily our love for our Lord. In nurturing that love, the others should all fall into place. Do not risk losing the greatest love of all. And by the way, ... I love you guys.

MARCH FOR LIFE 30th Anniversary of Roe vs. Wade

January 22, 2003, was the 30th anniversary of the U.S. Supreme Court's infamous decision legalizing abortion. As on every January 22nd since 1973, supporters of Right to Life peacefully and prayerfully gathered in Washington DC to remember this modern holocaust and let our elected officials know we want the law changed to stop this ultimate child abuse. This year over 100,000 people gathered to March for Life.

Six people from Seton went on the Greater Columbus K of C charter bus from Reynoldsburg. My wife Vicki and I went, along with Molly Heuser and three SPY students: Michelle Silva, Shannon Proehl, and Jordan Hooker. Our thanks to Council 11187 for sponsoring two of these students. SPY sponsored the other student. The students were enthusiastic and motivated and really appreciated the council's support. Council 11187 also sponsored seminarian David Shalk - we saw him there with the other seminarians from the Josephinum (they sent two buses of seminarians).

The events started with a spectacular Vigil for Life Mass at the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception. The opening procession of deacons, seminarians, priests, and bishops took 20 minutes! Michelle counted 1 Cardinal, 41 bishops, over 300 priests – over 400 total clergy. Cardinal Bevilacqua, Archbishop of Philadelphia, was the principal celebrant and gave a great homily about the sanctity of life. During the Mass, a letter from President Bush in support of the pro-life movement was read.

The next morning we went to the Ohio Right to Life Congressional Breakfast. Both of our senators, George Voinovich and Mike DeWine, spoke at the event and reiterated their support for pro-life issues, especially for a ban on 'partial birth abortion'. A number of other congressional representatives were also there, including Pat Tiberi from this area. Mike DeWine invited those at the breakfast to come to his office after the March. Several of us did and got our pictures taken with Senator DeWine and his wife. Several other speakers spoke about the progress the pro-life movement has made and the challenges we still have to overcome. Vicki was especially proud of her former student, Caitlin Hogan, Ohio Right to Life youth director, who spoke about the growing pro-life youth movement.

After the breakfast, we walked to the Mall by the Washington Monument for the March itself. It was a beautiful day, but very cold. President Bush spoke to the marchers by phone and again expressed his support for the pro-life movement. Quite a few other dignitaries also spoke of the progress and future of the pro-life movement and in opposition to abortion. A ban on the gruesome 'partial birth abortion' procedure will be introduced during this session of Congress and President Bush promised to sign it into law. While we were waiting for the March to begin, a reporter for National Public Radio (NPR) interviewed Jordan and me. Friends told me that the interview was broadcast later that day -perhaps some of you heard it?

All in all, it was a great event. There is a very real chance of making significant progress in limiting abortion and furthering a 'Culture of Life' now that we have a Congress and President that support life issues. A majority of the American population now supports limiting or abolishing abortion. A ban on partial birth abortion will likely be passed, President Bush may have the opportunity to nominate one or two pro-life Supreme Court justices, and bills requiring that women be informed of the risks and alternatives to abortion may be passed. There is still a lot of work to be done, however, so keep praying and supporting pro-life issues and candidates.
